Description of Complaint:

Dear All

Last night, I woke from sleep around midnight. We had the windows open since the humidity has been low the last few days. I could smell the sulfur scent of landfill gas from my bed. I got up and noticed it in other places in my house, such as my children's bedrooms. I went outside and it was strong outside my home in the street (say 4 out of 5; 0-being good, 5 being bad). I shut all the windows and turned on the A/C to try to filter the odor from my home. I called it into the MDEQ hotline also. I eventually went to sleep about an hour later. This morning, there was no discernible odor.

In addition, yesterday evening I drove up Napier to 6 mile on the way home from Ann Arbor around 7:30pm and didn't smell it, even with the windows down - right next to the dump. This just shows how there can be no odor, then bad odor a few hours later, then no odor again shortly after that.

I did not read any texts or social media posts to call in this odor - I called it in because it smelled bad and I don't like the idea that my family has to breathe this stuff and that the MDEQ tells me everything is fine because of the monitoring twice a day.

I have lived in my current home since September 2012 and have only formally complained less than 15 times, so I also

I have lived in my current home since September 2012 and have only formally complained less than 10 times, so I also don't like being classified as a "frequent complainer" by the MDEQ.
